Lindsay,
On the list we have.....

Marginal Energy True-Up – Much like the change in Net Requirements calculations and the interpretation of RSO, the METU must be considered relative to the other issues. Without a full suite of policy proposals customers cannot fully understand the overall impacts. METU represents the possibility of a significant financial liability and customer want to make sure the net requirements amounts can be reasonably updated to minimize this potential liability.

PLVS – To Date....customers are concerned about the QCC offered through PLVS relative to the unknown cost. BPA and customers need to work on this together to ensure we get both the service and the cost correct.

I hope this helps.

Chris

Lindsay,

I just checked with the group on sending the issue list and some folks would rather wait for the full review on Monday before we send it. Stay tuned....
